Giants Awards

Grand Rapids Community College students Todd Johnson and Kyle J. Macklin were each awarded the Milo M. Brown Scholarship Saturday night at the DeVos Place as part of the Giants Awards, a yearly event honoring African-Americans who have had a great impact in the community.

Collegiate Guide to: Google Calendar

One of the most challenging parts of student life is navigating the sea of an ever-changing and complex schedule. GRCC provides students with an account that allows them access to Google Calendar.

A new smartphone application for reading The Collegiate was created by five students in the online Mobile Application Development & Security course and is now available online for free download.

The project was completed as part of the Grand Rapids Community College's Service Learning Initiative, which facilitates community engagement for the college.

"This is a very exciting project to me because I love when students get involved in building a collegiate campus community and use technology to do so," said Szymon Machajewski, faculty adviser for the project and instructor for the course. "The GRCC Service Learning Program is truly what makes GRCC a great place to experience the best of teaching and learning."

The Service Learning Program focuses on experiential learning and connecting with the community.

Students in the class had to complete a special registration to participate in the program but will also receive a special designation on their transcripts.

The project continues this semester. "We are going to hold user focus groups and allow students to vote on new app features," Machajewski said.

The first focus group will be 2:30 p.m. Feb. 20 in room 214 of the ATC building.
